THE WESTERN REVIEW

DRAYTON VALLEY, ALBERTA -- JULY 5, 1972

Hoping it'll float, one of the three teams in the raft race down the North Saskatchewan River prepares to push off.

Champs Retain Trophy In Downriver Race

A raft poled by Armand Brisebois and Fred Bauman was the first to reach the finish line in the Drayton Valley Raft Race held last Saturday.

The race from the West Bank Treatment Plant, south-west of Violet Grove, to a point 200 yards down river from the North Saskatchewan River bridge, south-east of Drayton Valley, took just over one hour.

Two other entries, a raft poled by Peter Vowk and Norman Law, and one poled by Conrad Brisebois and Joe Vowk were unable to manoeuver back across the river in time to reach the finish line. Both rafts were swept around the next bend of the Saskatchewan River and were recovered by a speedboat driven by Doug Bauman, which had followed the rafts along their route.

And they're off....

Armand Brisebois and Fred Bauman, both of Drayton Valley, retain the trophy they won in the 1967 Raft Race.

Tomahawk, Entwistle Hold Annual July 1st Sports Days

Despite overcast skies and intermittent showers, Canada Day activities went on as planned at Tomahawk and Entwistle.

The parade at Tomahawk got underway at 10:30 a.m. with Herb Zander and David Case acting as Parade Marshalls and the County Police, Richard Reich and Howard Gilbert as judges. First prize of $15 went to the Tomahawk Fire Department, with the Community Club float taking second prize and the Curling Club third prize. The parade began below the hill and proceeded through town toward the Sports grounds.

Local teams kept the grounds active during the afternoon, with the Mosquitos, Tom Thumbs, Beavers, and men playing ball. Old-timers beat the younger men in a 5:00 o'clock game.

Other activities included a 4-H Slave Sale, races, horseshoes, bingo, ball throw, fish pond and confectionery booths.

Handicrafts and hobbies were displayed in the curling rink, and a dance was held in the hall in the evening.

Meanwhile at Entwistle, also under cloudy skies, the annual July 1st Sports Day got underway with a parade at 10:00 a.m. Other events consisted of ball games, children's races, a booth, and games of chance.

Warburg Wins Breton Tourney

Six teams took part in the annual Breton Baseball Tournament held Saturday.

Second prize money was won by the Drayton Valley Oilers who lost out in extra innings in the final game to the Warburg team by a score of 6 to 5.

Four Die In Accident

Four men were killed June 28 when the car they were driving collided with a train at a level crossing near Leamen, about 10 miles west of Wildwood.

Wayne Gossen, 19, of Whitecourt; Thomas McKenzie, 23, of Swan Hills; Gordon Miller, 21, of Gainford; Sydney Parnall, 19, of Wildwood were involved in the fatal early morning accident, Evansburg RCMP reported.

The familiar wise-looking bookworm inches its way down the route as it leads off Canada Day parade in Entwistle.

Cloud Seeding Experiments Started Recently at Penhold

Project Hailstop 1972, the experimental cloud seeding program of the Alberta Hail Studies group, began at Penhold recently with the arrival of the Cessna 320 aircraft. This aircraft is fully equipped for cloud seeding and carries 104 flares.

These flares are dropped from an altitude of 16-20,000 feet, depending upon the temperature inside the cloud, into the tops of growing storm clouds. Each flare, in a cardboard container, burns completely as it falls, releasing nuclei.

This cloud seeding aircraft will normally patrol the foothills area from southwest of Rocky Mountain House to near Cochrane on all days when storm clouds are expected to develop to sufficient size to produce hail. It will seed as many growing storm clouds as possible before they move eastward across the farming areas. This is an experimental hail suppression program to determine the feasability as well as the effectiveness of suppressing hail over a specified area.

Only three operational hours were flown by the Cessna last week as the extremely wet and cool weather does not lead to significant hail production. However, the widespread shower activity that broke out last Wednesday with some storm tops to 25-30,000 feet did produce pea and some grape sized hail.

Eleven storm clouds were seeded and many rain and a few hail samples were collected by the volunteer sampling stations. These samples are being picked up and taken to Edmonton for silver content analysis. The silver analysis is used to determine the location of silver fallout from the storm and will be correlated with the seeding locations and radar structures of the storms to assist in evaluating seeding effectiveness.

Tomahawk Firemen took first prize in the Tomahawk July 1st parade, with the futuristic Community Association taking second.

Midget Aces Play Shelby

The Drayton Valley Midget Aces travelled to Shelby, Montana June 24 and 25. One game was played Saturday afternoon with Shelby American Legion winning 7-5. Kim Pasula took the loss, pitching in relief of starting pitcher Ron Bartek.

Sunday afternoon the Aces took the first game of a double header 9-3. Parry Mohn went the innings for the win, striking out nine Shelby batters. In the second game the Aces ended up on the bottom of an 8-5 score. Ron Bartek went the distance for the Aces in a losing cause.

Coach Bryon Crerar feels the boys played very well and, with a couple of breaks, could have taken all three games.

The following players made the trip: Ron Bartek, Keith Broadbent, Roy Machan, Paul Coutu, Bob Hall, Lindsay Machan, Parry Mohn, Allan Moscaluk, Kim Pasula, Tom Sharkey, Barry Sommers, Gary Whelen and Dan Wickland.

Joe Bartek and Lloyd Sommers made the trip with the team.

A return series is planned in the near future.

Wading Pool Open

The Drayton Valley Wading Pool was opened July 1 and will be under supervision from 10:00-12:00 noon, 1:00 to 4:00 each day, providing the weather is nice. Saturday and Sunday, only 1:00-4:00 p.m.

Among the immigrants who arrived in Canada in 1970 were 1,113 physicians and surgeons, 72 dentists and 905 medical and technicians, according to Department of Manpower and Immigration records.

D.V. Highlights

BY MRS. EDITH DEBY

Very best good wishes for future happiness go to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Rand, nee Miss Marlyn Bishop, of Nova Scotia, who were married in Drayton Valley on Saturday. Mr. Rand is a university student who is employed for the summer by a local firm.

Miss Anne Kaarsemaker and Miss Antoinette Krabbe will be leaving soon for a holiday in Europe. Miss Kaarsemaker has a number of relatives in Holland who will be helping the girls to have a pleasant time.

Mr. Henry Dunington had several members of his family for a visit last week. They are Mr. Stan Dunington of Wainwright, Mrs. William Chisholm and Dean of Bragg Creek and Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Verna) Brekke of New Westminster.

Mr. Dean Reynolds, of Violet Grove, was reading when a head appeared at his window. Just as Mr. Reynolds recognized that his Peeping Tom was a bear, another came crashing through the door. Enough is enough and Mr. Reynolds reached for his rifle. One of those bears will not be calling on anyone again but the other is still at large. It has been suggested that one should inquire as to the caller's identity before opening a door. Come to think of it that wouldn't do any good. The bear in the story did not wait to have the door opened for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Look and three of their children are visiting in Violet Grove. The Looks have lived in the north for many years.

Congratulations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. William Verigan who were married in Drayton Valley on the weekend. Mrs. Verigan is the former Miss Phyllis Anderson.

The Vernon Ranks family plan an out-of-the-usual holiday. They have rented a sail boat and will spend some time cruising around the coast islands.

Rev. Bert McQuaid is in the Royal Alexandra Hospital suffering from painful injuries sustained in a highway accident. Mr. McQuaid's car is a total loss and his many friends here are truly thankful that he was not more seriously hurt.

W.I. Plans Flower Show

The proposed visit to the Devon Botanical Gardens rained out. Consequently, the meeting was held in the Women's Institute Meeting Rooms in the basement of the town hall. Five members attended.

Reports on the Constituency Conference held at Wabamun and of the Handicraft Meeting were given by Mrs. Hammerlindl and Mrs. Deby respectively.

Mrs. Burrows gave a report on the Judging School that she attended in Edmonton.

Tentative plans were laid to attend the Handicraft Tea to be held in Winterburn on October 18. All entries to be in place at nine o'clock.

Following is a list of names where flower show lists may be picked up: R.R. Store & Jouan Electric in Tomahawk; Mrs. Vi Cherrington at Moon Lake; Mrs. Connie Saliski at Evansburg; Mrs. Fred Wilson at Violet Grove, Drayton Hardware in Drayton Valley, Busy Bee Club in Berrymoor and any W.I. member in Drayton Valley.

The July meeting will be held at the Burrow's cottage at Lake Isle at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, July 24, when Mrs. Dalheim and the members of the Calihoo Branch will be guests.

Drayton Valley members are reminded that they are to bring a batch of their favourite cookies and the recipe.

Any grownup who says he doesn't believe in fairy tales obviously isn't addicted to spring garden catalogues.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor,
The Western Review,
Dear Sir:

Many years ago it was seen fit by the Canadian government to support the provinces in setting up fire departments in all major cities, towns and communities.

Through our local government in the province of Alberta, and through the County of Parkland and the Town of Drayton Valley, taxes are being paid to maintain and house a local Fire Department in your area of concern.

We, the volunteer firemen of the Town of Drayton Valley and the County of Parkland farming and industrial area, are trying to save life and property to the best of our ability, and through co-operation from you, the citizens, of the area.

On June 17 at 9:00 p.m., we received a call from a party who had been notified that the Ted Harris farmhouse was on fire. The fire department responded as quickly as possible, with the fire truck leaving town with only three men on it. Others who were not at the hall when the truck left, used their own cars to get to the fire. As they attempted to cross the highway going west, a solid line of traffic resulted in the fire department members being slow in getting to the fire.

During this time, a life was at stake. The party renting the farmhouse had received first degree burns to his arms, hands and face in attempting to put out the fire. The County Police arrived on the scene, and, in trying to rush him to hospital for treatment, had to stop and wave people over to the side of the road in order to get through. The injured man was in such shock with pain that he was passing out at times.

I trust as you read this letter that it will make you stop and think--it could have been your home or a member of your family.

A fire truck should not be followed as there are other fire members who are trying to get to the fire, and perhaps on arrival at the fire find a life to save as well as the property.

I don't wish anyone bad luck, but I hope your home is not the next one in which we'll have to fight traffic to save it, or a member of your family.

The concern of the Drayton Valley Fire Brigade.

E. Madsen
Fire Chief.

Report From Parliament Hill

By Allen Sulatycky, M.P.

The United Nations Conference on the Human Environment recently held in Stockholm was a great success. Much of that success can be attributed to the involvement of Canadians and the Canadian delegation.

The Canadian contingent included not only federal officials, but also representatives from the provinces and industry. The international press covering the conference rated the Canadian delegation as the strongest contingent at the conference.

The Christian Science Monitor in a recent editorial on the conference concluded:

"To rally all the participating nations in support of the conference proposals at a meeting lasting only 11 days was something of a tour de force. Much of the conference's success was due to the extraordinary skill and untiring energy of it chief organizer, Maurice Strong of Canada."

At the conference, representatives if 112 nations agreed, often unanimously, to a set of principles, an action plan and an organizational structure which will help mankind to fight pollution on land, in the sea and in the air.

The accomplishments of the conference ranged from the identification of atmospheric pollutants of global concern to the dumping of toxic substances on the high seas. Provisions were made for the protection of endangered species of wildlife and for payment of compensation when the effects of pollution originating in one country were felt in another country.

The Declaration of the Human Environment was a real victory for Canada, which tabled well before the conference began a declaration of the human environment consisting of legal principles analagous to the UN declarations of principles on outer space and human rights. We were the first country to do so.

Some countries opposed the introduction of such principles into the Stockholm declaration. But, as the leader of the Canadian delegation, Environment Minister Jack Davis said in reporting to Parliament, "we persisted".

By the end of the conference Canada was clearly seen to be leading the fight to preserve the environment. Canadians would not accept anything less.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By KEVIN PETERSON

Rural Albertans should be able to take part in a vastly-improved education system, have a supermarket style outlet for government services, and participate in an "integrated provincial development" plan, Dr. Walter Worth says.

Dr. Worth's massive report on the future of education in the province--which extends beyond education to almost all aspects of society--stresses that equality of educational opportunity should be the keynote of the Alberta system.

And he leaves little doubt that to guarantee equality the government must begin paying more attention than it has been to smaller centres in the province.

"There is a strong and observable tendency for rural people, especially the young, to feel that the quality of their education is inferior to that offered in urban centres," his report says.

"Parity between city and non-city educational opportunities is central to upgrading the quality of rural life. Proper schooling is vital to rural children whether they remain on a farm or enter the labor market."

Dr. Worth says that many of the innovative proposals in his report--especially the suggested $31 million provincial television network and the Alberta Academy, a campus-less university--are aimed directly at this inequity.

Instead of forcing rural residents to go through a costly upwrenching from their homes to get education, he argues, the province should take education to them.

Under the Alberta Academy he proposes regional learning centres would be set up within 50 miles of almost every Albertan. Courses would rely heavily on television and correspondence, but tutors would be present at the centres to provide essential personal contact.

The system would allow higher education for all Albertans, without imposing the high living costs now faced by those who do not live near a University.

Similarly, Dr. Worth believes government services in a community should be provided from a central office, rather than forcing citizens to identify which department their complaint or concern involves. The public would meet a receptionist immediately upon entering the provincial office near them who would direct them to someone who could handle the matter.

Dr. Worth's integrated provincial development plan would attempt to provide a flexible forecast of the development of public services across the province.

"Resistance to planned school concentration has its roots in a variety of social, economic, biological and emotional factors," his report says. "We must help all citizens to understand and react to the patterns of change anticipated for the next 30 years".

Pioneers are Still Needed

THE FIRST EUROPEAN PIONEERS staked out their homesteads in Canada 374 years ago. On July first this year we celebrate the 105th anniversary of the day when their successors brought together their scattered hamlets and settlements into a confederated nation.

All history is the story of continuous exploration and discovery and colonization. If we are not to suffer national stagnation we need to bring to life again the pioneer spirit, encourage freedom to change grow; be willing to entertain suggestions, and provide growing space so that every person may develop skills to the fullest extent of his ability.

Every man and woman in Canada can invent something, do something new, or do something old in a better way. There are opportunities for pioneers in industry, agriculture, education, finance, literature, music, art, technology and home making.

Everyone is to some extent a pioneer. He notices a situation wherein improvement can be made, foresees the course of events a little, pictures in his mind's eye a desirable outcome, and devises means by which he will bring about the betterment. Every generation produces people who seek after new lamps, and some are as fortunate as Aladdin.

The men and women who came into Canada in the 1500's were starting life, as it were, once more at the beginning, subsisting roughly in a land where there were none of the comforts of Europe. They fell back upon long-inactive instincts and they relearned forgotten crafts. Civilized people of anciently cultured lands, they did the labour of primitive races so that they might survive and forge ahead.

Here were pioneers from two great nations, forced by their environment and isolation to modify what they had learnt so as to fit the ruggedness of the land in which they had chosen to build their homes.

To their credit, they coped with the austere existence of the frontier, modified their thoughts and habits, and made experiment and adjustment amid the novel life of forest and prairie. They were sustained by expectation, enterprise, energy and courage, and they created a nation.

Some people think that because there is so great evidence of progress since those days the picture is complete, but there are many unfinished jobs, incomplete inventions, unborn ideas and new problems. We need the pioneering spirit as urgently as ever.

Think of what might be

Everyone knows the saying "Necessity is the mother of invention", but in today's Canada fullness of life and not grievous necessity is the spark plug behind the production of new things and new discoveries. As H. Stafford Hatfield wrote in The Inventor and His World (Pelican 1948): "Fish colonised the land, bats and birds conquered the air, not because they were pushed out of the sea or off the land, but by a kind of élan akin to our own inventive drive."

No outside pressure or government decree will compel a person to become an explorer or an inventor or a pioneer. The desire must be within him; it is one that he can stir up. Discontent is not always a bad state of mind. It is constructive when restlessness of mind prompts a person to search for better ways of doing things.

Pioneering requires awareness of what is going on instead of the heedless inattentiveness of a rut-bound life. We are in danger of getting so set upon following a formula, upon conforming to habit, that we miss the side views.

SUB-MITS

FROM THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

And so among the helter-skelter of year-end activities another school year has ended.

First, even teachers make mistakes. In last week's column, the answer to how many school buses operate here should be 15 and not 19.

Last week saw two more grade five classes tour the Provincial Museum and Archives and the AGT Museum in Edmonton. Mr. Lenihan's and Miss Prudaniuk's classes found the displays most informative. A special thank you to Mrs. Poloway and Mrs. Staples for their help.

Royal Purple Awards were presented to every classroom. Congratulations to the following children for their work -- well done. Grade One - Barry James, Darren Bartlett, Sandra Gould, Duane Gilbertson, and Terri Gillis. Grade Two - Jerry Bierkos, Cheryl Wiseman, Darren Videsjorden, Patty Miller, Jeff Johnson. Grade Three - Linda Halushka, Charlene Hoople, Kelly Cleve, Sheryl Gough, and Janice Brown. Grade Four - Corinne Selin; Karen Balen, Anna - Marie Thompson, Kevin Lyon, and Rosalie Nickel. Grade Five - Dale Snider, Erik Erickson, Elizabeth-Anne Lewis, Edward Lauer, Susan Ackeral. Grade Six - Andy Resler, Renee Lawrence, Teresa Dean, and Heather McLeod.

The Ladies of the Royal Purple for many years have recognized scholastic achievement in our schools. The staff and students wish to extend their thanks. It is appreciated.

A year end always brings a few changes to a staff. This year we bid adieu to Mrs. Ruby Hurley and Mrs. Miner who say they are going to take it easier. Mrs. Nordby is on a leave of absence to attend university. Miss Stewart and Mrs. Read are off to new homes and greener pastures. Good luck to all, we'll miss you.

The summer is also a busy time for some teachers. Nine or ten are off to Summer School. Several are off to exotic far-away lands. The Hurley's are going to Great Britain. Miss Bolstler is off to Europe. Mrs. McDonald is going to China, and Mr. McCarthy will have a working vacation, teaching in Thailand.

Congratulations to the Mayans on the arrival of a new baby girl. Mrs. Mayan teaches grade four.

And our sincere thanks to the Western Review for providing this link with you.

Happy holidays!

In Drayton Valley Wednesdays at Sekura Auctions From 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

In the face of unsettled weather, haying is getting into full swing. The least possible curing time for cut hay is desired, reduce half the nutrient losses and bad weather risks. If forage is to be field-cured for hay, 3 or more days may be needed before sun and wind action reduces the moisture content to a safe 20% for baling and storing. By using a hay conditioner, this time can be reduced by a day or more.

Hay conditioners all produce a mashing, crushing, mangling effect on the stems that permits release of plant moisture to the surrounding air. Otherwise, leaves which dry out faster shatter readily by the time stems are at a low enough moisture content to bale. By all means -- save those leaves. As the percent of leaves saved increases so does the digestibility, vitamin "A" and protein content of your forage.

Conditioners are most effective if the stalks are still turgid with moisture when conditioning is done. This means 15 to 30 minutes after mowing. If you don't condition hay soon enough you'll find it won't condition properly. Wilted hay is like wilted celery -- flabby and hard to break. To condition hay properly, hay must be fresh and crisp.

For those with bale handling systems, beating the weatherman is only half of the battle. But there is still the time consuming job of loading, transporting and unloading them. Recently, producers having problems obtaining help have been looking at the economics of a bale wagon. Question is, can you afford the price tag?

Farm management specialists have indicated the fixed cost of owning a bale wagon that will handle 95 bales per load, having a purchase price of $6600 and lasting 10 years as $1122. Fixed cost per bale are reduced as you handle more bales.

Operating costs/bale, in contrast, remain the same regardless of how many bales you handle. Operating costs (tractor at 2¢/bale, labor at 1.3¢/bale were calculated at 3.3¢. Thus if you stack 9000 bales annually total cost/bale is 15.8¢. If you stack 15,000 cost is 10.8¢ for 30,000 it's 7¢, etc.

Perhaps, if you do not have enough hay to justify owning a bale wagon, the machine could be purchased co-operatively by a group.

If not, perhaps you should be looking at the economics alternative haying systems.

In succeeding years other selected sections will be checked. Other farmers may be checked at the discretion of the Area Captain or Fieldman.

Cattle Squeeze and Calf Table Rental Rates - The rental rates for either the cattle squeeze or the calf table will be $5.00 per day for the first two days and $10.00 per day for every succeeding day or portion thereof.

Pesticide Sprayer Rates- The rental rate for the pesticide sprayer will be $10.00 per hour of spraying time plus the cost of chemical. There will be a minimum charge of 1 hour per farm call. The Fieldman will accompany the sprayer and operate same.

A.S.B. Minutes for Farm Organization Locals - Upon a request by Pinedale Unifarm it was decided to make available a resume of the minutes of each A.S.B. meeting to this and other farm organizations.

Weed Inspectors - In response to a letter from Mr. Stan Powers, Weed Control Supervisor, the Board was in agreement with the new procedure in which Weed Inspectors would be appointed. Supervision would remain with the Local Board.

Weed Control - The new revised Weed Act was discussed and considered for possible last minute changes. Two main points in the new Act are: each Service Board must appoint weed inspectors, control of weeds on roadways is the responsibility of the Municipality (under the old Act roadside weed control was the responsibility of the adjacent landowner).

Fence posts - It was pointed out that treated fence posts were being sold under the pretense of being treated with penta but in fact were only treated with oil. It was agreed that investigation into this matter was warranted.

Resume of the minutes of the meeting held May 10, 1972.

Business arising out of minutes: Warble Control - The problem of non-treatment was discussed at length. One particular case was under discussion. It was decided that steps be taken to enforce treatment by legal process if necessary.

Fence Posts - The District Agriculturist reported having contacted a Departmental Engineer and found that there were no regulations covering minimum standards for soak treated fence posts.

New Business : Small Sprayer - It was reported that the herbicide sprayer which the Agricultural Service Board had been renting from Department of Highways might possibly be sold by Dept. of Highways.

Weed Control - Mr. Hall and Mr. Greenwood were appointed as Weed Inspectors as of June 12, 1972.

Weed control was discussed at length. It was agreed the manner of handling weed infestations be as follows: the weed inspector talks to the farmer and discusses the weed problem. Serious cases will be referred to the Agricultural Fieldman who writes the offenders a letter. Following a further check, a destroy notice would be issued if no action has taken place.

It was also decided to investigate the possibility of rental or hire of equipment for destruction of weeds and/or weed infested crops.

United Church Setting For Spring Ceremony

The United Church in Drayton Valley was the setting for the lovely spring wedding of Gwen Laughlin and Mr. Donald Emperingham of Drayton Valley, on June 2nd.

The Reverend Palmer from Warburg performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride looked radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a lovely full length gown made of nylon lace over nylon net tulle. The fitted bodice had a little stand-up collar with imitation pearl trim. The waist dipped at the front and back and the long sheer lace sleeves were gathered into a pointed cuff. The three deep, scalloped-edged frills at the back formed a self train. Her waist length veil was accented by a pearl trimmed lace bridal cap. The bride carried a bouquet of deep red roses and wore a silver locket, a gift from the groom.

The bridesmaids, Edith Colby and Caroline Young, friends of the bride, wore long brocaded gowns of blue fortrel. The long fitted gowns were accented by long sleeves and lined hoods. The girls carried bouquets of apple blossoms.

The youngest sister of the bride, Lorraine, made a beautiful flower girl in her long sleeveless gown of blue polyester crepe, trimmed with white lace. She wore white daisies in her hair and carried a basket of the same flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother, Val Emperingham and the brother of the bride, Dwayne Laughlin.

Chuck Emperingham was the ring-bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a hot pink sheath dress with white lace overcoat, white accessories and a pink corsage.

The groom's mother wore a hot pink sleeveless dress with white pleats, white accessories and a white corsage.

Mrs. Pickup played lovely organ music during the wedding and the signing of the register.

A reception followed at the Lindale Community Hall. Master of Ceremonies was the bride's uncle from Peace River, Walter Joneson. Mrs. Mae Martin asked the blessing while friends and cousins of the bride served the tables. A dance followed.

THE METRIC SYSTEM

If Canada goes metric, there are many phases involving weights and measures that might have to be converted. No longer will fellows wear a 10 gallon hat rather try a 37.86 liter hat. She 2.54 centimetered her way through the crowd. Football fans will have to convert to -- First down and 9.14 meters to go!

The conversion to the metric system will gradually take place and people should become familiar with the system.

I hope there is more than 0.06 gram of truth in this. Try this conversion on for size, her measurements were 91-60-91 centimeters.

One of the major advantages of the metric system is its simplicity. Conversion to larger or smaller units involves only multiplication or division by units of 10.

The meter (m) is the basic unit of length. Meters are divided into decimeters (dm), centimeters (cm), and millimeters (mm) -- in those words, tenths, hundredths and thousandths.

Thus, 10 decimeters equals 1 meter; 100 centimeters equals 1 meter; 1,000 millimeters equals 1 meter.

Going up, the units are decameters (dam), hectometers (hm) and kilometers (km); 1 decameter equals 10 meters; 1 hectometer equals 100 meters; 1 kilometer equals 1,000 meters.

For area, the basic unit is the Square Meter. A hectare (ha) is a square with sides 100 meters long. In volume, the basic unit is the cubic meter.

In the metric system, volume or capacity is measured in leters (l), decaliters (dal) or hectoliters (hl); 1,000 liters equals 1 cubic meter; 100 decaliters equals 1 cubic meter; 10 hectoliters equals 1 cubic meter.

For harvesting or seeding, 89 liters per hectare equals approximately 1 bushel per acre.

In practice, the basic metric unit of weight is the kilogram (kg), which is equal to 1,000 grams (g): 1 metric ton (t) equals 1,000 kilograms; 1 quintal (q) equals 100 kilograms; 10 quintals equals 1 metric ton.

The metric system, when it is fully adopted, will affect every area of our daily life. The farmer will get used to thinking of metric quintals of wheat per hectare, rather than bushels per acre. The housewife will use grams, not ounces, in baking -- 225 grams of granulated sugar, not 8 ounces (1 cup); 5 grams of baking powder, instead of 1 teaspoon. For liquid measures, 2.3 deciliters are 1 cup; 1/2 a liter is just under 1 pint.

Our temperature scale will also be different. Under the converted system, we will also be different. Under the converted system, we will use the centigrade rather than the fahrenheit scale. A very hot oven will be 230 degrees C., not 450 degrees F. as we know it now. Normal body temperature will be 37 degrees C.

Several farmers along the river flats of the North Saskatchewan river have lost much of their crops due to the high water. One farmer, across the river, has 180 acres under water, others report over 200 acres of crop destroyed. This writer very well remembers the water that spread over the flats in June of 1915 when her own home had 18 inches of water covering the floor. Fortunately the water was not quite as high this time.

Research in Progress For New Weed Controls

Why does a weed that spends most of its life clustered near the ground suddenly bolt and flower?

Why do some plants complete the job in one summer?

Why do others of exactly the same species put it off until they've survived a winter, then bloom the following spring?

These are important questions with even more important answers, for flowering and seed set are the mainstays of weed survival.

No flowering would soon mean no weeds.

Scientists at the Agriculture Canada Research Station are hoping to answer the questions and find new clues to weed control in the process.

G.I. McIntyre and K.F. Best have chosen a worthy subject for their studies -- stinkweed.

A member of the mustard family, stinkweed is a nuisance in every province of Canada. In the west, it steals much needed moisture from struggling grain crops. Dairy products are tainted when cows feed on the weed, and off-flavors can result in meat when the weed is grazed.

"Stinkweed has been called both an annual and a winter annual," said Mr. Best.

"That means some plants bolt and flower during one summer while others remain in a rosette form over winter and flower in the spring.

"It was thought that a plant which germinated in late summer would probably overwinter while one that had a head start in the spring would flower and set seed during the one growing season."

But the Regina scientists have found that stinkweed doesn't behave according to the theory.

"We have grown a batch of seed in growth chambers and found two distinct types of plants -- one that flowers in about 40 days and one that takes more than 90 days," said Dr. McIntyre.

"There was no other difference between the plants. Yet without fail, there were early and late flowering plants. Since then we've checked offspring from the two types and found late or early flowering is inherited -- there's a genetic difference in stinkweed."

Exactly what this means isn't clear yet, but the scientists have some ideas.

"Presumably there is a biochemical difference between the early and late flowering plants," said Dr. McIntyre.

"The study of such differences should contribute to our knowledge of the biochemical reactions relating to flowering and may eventually permit the use of chemicals resembling natural metabolites specifically designed to suppress the flowering of selected weeds."

Mr. Best added another possibility: "It seems that 2,4-D stimulates bolting and flowering. As we learn more about what causes flowering, we may find that fall treatment with 2,4-D triggers late flowering types to flower in time to be killed by winter weather instead of surviving in the rosette stage," he said.

The scientists are also checking factors in the environment for their effect on flowering. They are testing the early and late flowering weeds in the field this summer to be sure they behave the same in nature as in the growth chambers.
